Vaccinated? What You Should Still Keep Doing

For now, if you've been fully vaccinated:

- You should still protect yourself and others in many situations by wearing a mask that fits snugly against the sides of your face and doesn't have gaps. Take this precaution whenever you are:
 - In indoor public settings
 - Gathering indoors with unvaccinated people (including children) from more than one other household
 - Visiting indoors with an unvaccinated person who is at increased risk of severe illness or death from COVID-19 or who lives with a person at increased risk
- You should still avoid large indoor gatherings.
- If you travel, you will still be required to wear a mask on planes, buses, trains, and other forms of public transportation traveling into, within, or out of the United States, You should still watch out for symptoms of COVID-19, especially if you've been around someone who is sick. If you have symptoms of COVID-19, you should get tested and stay home and away from others
- You will still need to follow guidance at your workplace
- People who have a condition or are taking medications that weaken the immune system, should talk to their healthcare provider to discuss their activities
